Qualitative feedback

Has the training program covered what you expected? If partly or no, why?

- Ned more practice tools, less talking

What topic/issue has been the most important for you?

- Word tool exercise
- Practical skills and tools and how to apply them
- Strategies and practical tools
- Specific tools to use and how to implement them
- Developing practical skills to engage clients
- Learning the various tools that can be sued with clients, using people's scenarios definitely helped with how to use the tools.
- Discussion around differences between conflict and DV – not having tools pre-prepared
- Tools associated with engaging men
- Tools
- The different tools; the brief; child focus – generative connections

What topic/ issue has been the least important for you?

- I felt all the information was relevant and important
- N/A * 2
- Generativity
- The constant reflection

What impact will this training have on your work?

- Very good tools
- Very applicable and transferable to current practice
- Using some of the tools and more thoughtful about working in meaningful ways with men
- The workshop provided practical tools to sue with clients that are easy to use and understand. The tools can be pitched at any level and still produce positive outcomes
- It provides me with real strategies to use
- I will, use some of the tools discussed to engage clients
- The few tools that were discussed will be very beneficial
- Incorporate into work

Any other comments about the training course

- Thankyou
- Thanks for the training. Perhaps the RSL could refill the water bottle. I was a bit thirsty by the end of the day.
- Andrew was a very engaging presenter and all the information was relevant and easy to understand. Venue: the bread served was stale. It may be beneficial to cover generativity in the morning session as it was hard to focus at the end of the day.
- Generative topic should NOT be left towards to end.
- Beneficial for pairs to actively to practice tools – walking the line; allowing to be comfortable with, to vary from group participation and conversation direction. Andrew was very engaging and holds a lot of knowledge relating to the topic. His passion shines through.
- Very bold way of working with people
- Helped me a lot
